SHELLS DEFLECTED BY TREE KILLED 4, HURT 9 IN 312TH

Col. Anderson, in Letter to Mother of Slain Man, Describes Unusual Casualties.

How two shells deflected by a tree burst among men of the 312th Infantry, killed four and wounded nine, is told by Col. Alford V. P. Anderson, Commander of the regiment, in a letter to Mrs. Edward Borham of No. 19 West Park Street, Newark, Mrs. Borham's son, Private Frederick W. Keller, was one of the men killed.

"We had been in the line for several trying days," the Colonel wrote, "when the command was ordered into reserve, and I found a steep hillside where the command dug into the hill. The hill was so steep that you had to dig a bit to stay on it. We all had scraped off little flat places where we could remain in horizontal positions.

"In the early evening the enemy started what we called an 'aren shoot.' I watched this carefully, as I was very solicitous for my men and noticed that all the shells passed twenty to thirty feet overhead. I figured the whole regiment was safe. Along about midnight the enemy started another shoot. I was awake at the time and heard the shells passing over our heads. Suddenly two almost following each other hit the branches of a high tree, were deflected and exploded right among us. 'I don't believe a shell ever struck that hillside before. I don't believe one has ever struck since, but those two killed four of my men and wounded nine others. It grieves me to state that your son was one of the four. I have seen hundreds of men killed and wounded but I must candidly state this was the most incomprehensible occurrence that came to my attention. I cannot but believe that providence decreed that your son should give his life to his country.'

Nick Manetakis, No. 55 James Street, has asked the War Department to straighten out an odd situation produced by the casualty report. The report says that Private John Plakakia has been killed in action. But Manetakis says he is the uncle of two private soldiers both of whom lived with him before the war and each of whom bore the name of John Plakakia. He wants to find out which nephew was killed. One is twenty-four years old, the other twenty-five. Lieut. Frank A. Gale of the 316th Infantry, reported wounded Sept. 21, lived with his wife and little daughter at No. 167 Valley Road, Montclair, N. J. Recent letters from him state that he has been working as Liaison Officer on the staff of Gen. Johnson in the Army of Occupation, but he says nothing of having been wounded. Before enlisting Lieut. Gale was a newspaper man.

WIFE OF SINGER HEIR GETS DIVORCE IN FRANCE

Mrs. Paris E. Singer

Mr. Singer

Granting of Decree Based on Allegation of Misconduct by Husband.

Mrs. Paris E. Singer, a native of Australia, who has lived several years in Paris, has just received a divorce decree in France from the youngest of the twenty-four children of Isaac Singer, the millionaire inventor of the Singer sewing machine. The Singers celebrated their silver wedding anniversary in 1912 in Paris. The plea of Mrs. Singer is alleged misconduct on the part of Mr. Singer.

Mr. Singer, although not connected with the management of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, is a stockholder. At the company's office today it was said, he was at Palm Beach, Fla., where Mr. Singer established a group of cottages for returning wounded soldiers. He maintains a New York address at No. 119 East 10th Street. It was learned there that he is expected back today.

FAR EAST ENVOYS TO CROSS AMERICA

Peace Delegations of China and Japan to Receive Formal Courtesies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Delegations from China and Japan to the Peace Conference will pass through this country on their way to Paris. The State Department announced today that both parties now are en route and that while in the United States they will be accorded formal diplomatic courtesies.

It is understood the Chinese delegation is composed of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Ambassadors to France and England, and the Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Wellington Koo. Former Premier Saito heads the Japanese delegation.

black and tan dog answering the name of Shady tied up in his home he may not know that the animal is the pet of Major Roosevelt. Shady wandered away from the former President's home on Saturday. Charles Lee, the Colonel's chauffeur, and his assistant have travelled about the surrounding country offering a reward, but no trace of the dog could be found. Shady has been the Colonel's companion in his walks about his estate for several years.

TURKS MENACE CHRISTIANS.

Greeks in Constantinople Dispersed Machine Guns.

ATHENS, Tuesday, Dec. 10.—Greek residents in Constantinople have been prevented by the Turkish Government from continuing their celebration of the signing of the armistice with Turkey. According to advices reaching the semi-official Athens news agency, cavalry and machine guns were stationed in the streets to disperse the Greeks.

Anti-Christian manifestations, it is added, have occurred in Constantinople and the provinces. In Trebizond, Turkish regular troops have pillaged Greek homes and killed Greek citizens.
